his duties in the public service, and he has always performed his difficult office in a manner which has won for him universal esteem, and we are sure the appointment would give great satisfaction." It is somewhat singular that our contemporary has nothing to say of the past services of Mr. Plank. The coming man is welcomed, but it has forgotten to "speed the parting guest."

It must make a man feel mean to pay an old destitute his debts he is going to die, and then leave the doctor and him thousands all right.
A man was boasting that he had been married for twenty years and had never given his wife a cross word. Those who know him say he didn't dare to.

regarding Lin's anecdote for the authenticity of which we can vouch, shows clearly enough that Ting Fatai is a man of grim humor, stern, and quick to act when the occasion arises. But Ting has a soft side, also, and it is not often that business officials in his position put themselves in personal discomfort to provide for their people. To Ting Fatai, credit, he is said, he cared no pains to ensure an immediate and loss of the cargo, and the authorities should, instead of looking idly on, have done their utmost to secure the mutineers and the plundered property to the owners. The exaction of this heavy sum as compensation the German Government has not wisely. It cannot fail to have a strongly deterrent effect for the future.

and promising a liberal reward to deliverer. One of the pourriers employed on this place and Amoy spent two days on the roof of a house, without food, and presented himself at the Great Northern Telegraph Company's office in a miserable plight. At the

The following judgment delivered:—"The first question is, whether, Matheson & Co. employed to obtain a charter for the Oxfordshire? I find that they did that, to use the expression made in all the evidence, the ship was in their hands. When a ship is placed in the hands of

He was seized at once, when in the act of shouting his rifle, and whilst being secured he had come up expressly to shoot the Sikh sergeant, also Barrack Sergeant Swanton, and the Superintendent, Oregan. A bottle of poison was found in his possession, some of which he had evidently been ingesting with a view to hastening his revolution. It is believed he was jealous of the sergeant, and had some time entertained the feeling towards him.

The wounded man was removed to the willars. The German authorities, however, were inexcusable, and we are glad that they did not waive this must be regarded as, under the circumstances, a just claim. It is beyond dispute that there was gross neglect of public duty on the part of the Foo Ning officials, and that neglect of duty the Chinese Government must rightly hold responsible, notwithstanding the excuse of the riot of the masses, the conduct of the German was, we think, dictated by sound policy. — Freeman Herald.

There have been all kinds of rumours lately, preparations for moving British troops to China, but we know of no further foundation for them than the certainty that great irritation is felt at the termination of the Yunnan enquiry. We only trust that Sir Thomas Wade is not being lured into a repetition of the endless negotiations of last autumn, but will state firmly what he wants, and insist briefly upon concession.—*N. C. Alcorno said to have been destroyed. Tientsin 3-mael is in process of rebuilding and ready for the 700. It is reported that a few days since a great fire occurred at the Sing, or Eastern Imperial Quarters, consumed large quantity of material collected for rebuilding purposes, most of it lumber, the most expensive kind. The most prosperous and important accounts are current in relation to the origin of this calamity.

At a village a few li below Tientsin, late since, bandit raiders issued three

The latest news from Cambodia is that the French have been successful in their progress and have been able to locate in the province of Champea, on the frontiers of Laos, where the rebel prince Sivoua seems to have drawn together numerous partisans. Although considerable numbers of the French have been killed, it is believed that the French will be able to capture him.
